BASIC INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAM

The determination of curricula is fundamentally the responsibility of each school district in the state. However, the curricula must meet certain educational requirements set by statute and by the Division of Elementary Secondary Education.

Because education is a life-long process, the educational program in this school district will provide both formal studies to meet the general academic needs of students, and opportunities for students to develop individual talents and interests that will help them progress in career and technical education, and other specialized fields.

In our schools, an atmosphere will prevail in which healthy growth is fostered, ability is recognized, and excellence encouraged, and in which a productive life is held before pupils as a model to emulate.

The various instructional programs will be developed so that each child, in his or her progression through the various grades of our schools, receives a balanced, varied, and sequentially organized education that will serve his or her educational needs and prepare him or her for a productive, useful life in society. Different abilities and interest levels will be served to meet this goal.
